The Donald will continue, as it always has, to follow President Trump's lead

10739

1 months ago by Shadowman3001 [M] ⬆️ +10771 / -32

President Trump did not order violence.

If we're being honest, there wasn't a lot of violence in DC today. Outside of the cops shooting an unarmed woman.

That said, the internet is absolutely glowing right now with people that want us gone, and we'd rather not let them achieve that.

We can celebrate/condemn/discuss what has happened today, but this isn't the place to be organizing, or calling directly for, violence of any sort. Places to do that are easy to find.

I know this isn't what you want to hear. If I'm being honest it's not exactly what I want to say, but we're at a crossroads where we either continue to follow the President's lead, as we have always done - or we decide we know best. If you remember Alabama, that didn't work so well last time.

Something big did happen today. A very small group of people made a very large message. Today was a good reminder to our leaders, and to us.

It isn't the end, it's the beginning.

Awomen.

1024 ▼ edit: Stealing my top post to post this: @NBCNews · 38m House Majority Whip Clyburn: "I have faced violent hatred before.

I was not deterred then, and I will not be deterred now.

Tonight, Congress will continue the business of certifying the electoral college votes."

so what do you want us to do, just suddenly all pause and wait? LMFAO

You that entered the building and then were told to stand down by your president, you will be unfortunately arrested in some length of time or another. Thus the people most willing to fight the steal and fight tyranny will be captured WITHOUT A FIGHT once they return home.

Welcome to Canada boyos.

429 ▼ The clock starts today. The US we all loved is over.
Accept it.
Our vote does not matter. I expect some states to secede from the union. The union is dead, now it's on the states as battlegrounds.
We lost DC today. The farce we called a national election didn't work.
Find your friends, make plans. Use paper to organize; not the internet. We need some smarts to resolve and we can learn from what is happening in Hong Kong.

New mods probably a bunch of Pences.

Idk, I dont blame anyone for hostility. Look at all the threads "Its going to be Wild." Then these poor saps told to go tf home. Mix mssgs are never good.

I knew this horse shit was going to go down rally wise. Everyone's just a useful idiot at this point. There is no country to fight for. Look at the majority of its citizenry? Weak willed, lazy, fat, pussified. More people care about obtaining a PS5 than protecting the Constitution.

This is correct. Trump says it's going to be wild, then he gives a speech which is basically a rally speech and nothing new, just complaining about how the election was stolen. If the election was stolen and Trump admits that, then it is a declaration of war on our Republic and the will of the people is dead. If that's not worth fighting for, then what is?

Also, this forum should be bigger than any one person, Donald Trump. He has done this country a greater service than anyone imagined. He forced the corrupt leftists to rip masks and it woke up millions of patriots. We owe Trump for that.

Furthermore, this movement needs to continue. Trump or no Trump.

Exactly.....what good is family and carrier, without a FREE Country, that's what's our Founding Father's understood and many had wealth and large family and did more with LESS than what we have available today, meaning they didn't even have body-armor for starters...And if they were here today they'd prolly would have gotten more done with paper-cipher's and musket's, cause look at ALL the ammo that's been bought-up lately....and a lot of it should have been used TODAY !

We no longer have the president's support - perhaps it's simply to avert more violence - we don't know, but we were extremely disappointed in his lack of leadership today. He's been playing some "You'll see" tick tock crap lately, and today was supposed to be "the day for what? It was a day of bonding briefly with many others, but we were leaderless today."

Conservatives are loath to use violence, it's not in our nature. It's not softness, it's kindness and compassion.

But don't think we have somehow accomplished more than BLM did with their actual violence. All we had today was numbers. BLM never had hundreds of thousands in the streets anywhere, they were diluted. We got inside because of the press of bodies, not through force of arms.

Here's a summary of events and why they didn't want violence, but in my mind it's probably too late anyways:

Antifa wanted in for the photo op. media is going to run all trump supporter are evil and need jailed, etc. Leader of the gang busting in was from antifa protests int he past as was his buddy.

So fire af until they're inside then chill out and photo op with he cops so they have good ones for the papers.

Rest of the patriots were following Big Horns on the way in And many were inside purely because the people behind them shoved forward in their excitement like lemmings on a cliff.

Then it fizzled because nobody knew what to do with congress gone and Big Horn group and CO weren't about to give any more leadership.

Enterprising patriots ran through emails and shit.

“ it fizzled because nobody knew what to do with congress gone

This is the real problem and always was.

Okay, so we've seized the Capitol...Now what?

Unless you are literally willing to form your own government and hold it through violence, this was always how it was going to end.

We were never going to "win" today. This was the opening salvo. This was us showing the left that they don't have a monopoly on protests and that they have finally pushed us too far.

The key now is that it has to continue. Corrupt governments aren't overthrown in a few hours, it takes months and years of fighting back.

Yep. I figured it would take Biden being in office for at least a few months passing one draconian measure after another before We The People got to this level.

Today was not the only choice. It was just the start. I am sorry for those who thought otherwise.

It had just started.

There is no longer a lead, do the right thing, and move this site into a new direction using the same name. We are something more now, we're a movement that shouldn't follow one person or thing out of dedication.

The facts are as follows. People stormed the capital, they were not prepared (armed) to utilize the situation. It turned out it was a feint to justify deploying the national guard and, in the near future, gun confiscations. The moment came to activate the Insurrection Act and instead Trump said to go home. We're now alone.

Yep if Trump concedes many people here will demand this be a trump dynasty club, personally I don't really like any other Trump or see them as leadership material. DJT has let me down this past year but he is still the best man of the job, it wasn't about him being a bad leader or me blaming him for covid but it was all the deferring of power he has done for "optics" which kind of ruined my perception of him this year. A leader doesn't care for optics he cares about the people, if he has to order the governor of New York to be home arrested to save people's life he does so to save lives instead of not doing it or he gets better polls next month...

1 ▼ its not that hard. the truth is they didnt do anything. The original TPB has been gone for a long time.

what they did was release the base source code for the site, so many people could create separate versions that actually are not mirrors. they call it mirrors but they are all separate sites -- and you can even tell this because the torrents listed on some are more outdated than others.

in order to keep it online, they keep setting up hosting in many non-US friendly countries as well as other countries that have strong internet privacy laws and they pay for the hosting in anonymous cash like bitcoin.

so it becomes a game of whack-a-mole. even if the feds take down 20 copies, there are still another 20. and there is the root copy of it on TOR which is the closest to official but none of them are.

the original developers of TPB are long in prison now.

Has your opinion on antifa and BLM changed? Mine has. Where I once saw them as mindless thugs, I now see them as blessed people of action. The best thing for us and the worst thing for those that oppress the people would be if BLM, Antifa, Proud Boys and The Deplorables got together to talk about what to do about the boot on everyone's necks. Like caesar he made the mistake of thinking he could work with those who hated him.

I have always been a POTUS guy, but those calling for us to decentralize from a leader are correct. He riled us up for some "wild plan" that turned out to literally be "I hope Mike Pence does the right thing."

And an innocent woman died as a result.

“I hope Mike Pence does the right thing.”

Hadn't seen it put that way and it's right on bullseye. That's exactly why he called us today. Never was a plan, an objective, a directive for the people. A strong leader would've said, "if Pence fails us today, go back to your states and take them back. Don't allow them to rule you like they have been anymore. Make them fear the people." Something like that. Directive.

In hindsight, that he never actually "had the goods" on the election fraud, the best strategy to me was to address us directly months ago:

"This election was stolen from you, and here's how you take it back. I will devout myself, campaign and fundraise for the next years to find and sponsor candidates who will not sell us out. I will sue every state that enacts laws designed to perpetuate voter fraud. I will work day and night to expose this. You must work day and night to expose this. Your enemy is well armed, well organized and sees you as less than human. Nothing short of total vigilance will restore this republic. Your lives are at stake. Your liberty is at stake. I did not win this battle, but our war for the soul of America has just begun."

Instead, he'll probably be removed from office/resign in disgrace. He will have no capital to be a powerbroker with us as time goes on and people realize he may have done today knowing some of us might get hurt or killed as a backup plan to a backup plan's backup plan.

Because despite having all the notice in the world, he did not plan beforehand to stop his own demise when Dems literally told him how it would happen.

We all have to start thinking about a Biden presidency. Remember, those people were talking about lists of Trump supporters, and we're all potentially on them. A lot will change for the worse under Biden. Really worse, and we might have to scramble to adjust/protect.

I'm not saying give up. Note that Kamala still hasn't resigned her senate seat. Trump has not officially conceded. If it's a small scrap of hope, I'm holding onto it, but watching the storm clouds gathering.

Many people agree with this but we were downvoted to oblivion for saying it. Dems would have imploded on themselves within 2 years if we just exhibited patience. This will be a long drawn out issue and there was nothing strategically sound about today, other than giving people a little scare that they shouldn't keep poking the bear. None of my lefty friends are taunting as they usually do. I think there is kind of an "oh fuck" wake up call. But the media will spawn endless propaganda out of this to channel it however they want. I think all will work out well in the end but it will take at least a decade, and we will be vulnerable to China during that time--thats my main concern. This is the dark before the light.

Trump made voting architecture a major issue. We can work state by state to implement something that belongs in the 21st century. This is actually one of the most solvable issues. Focus state by state, starting with the most friendly and setting a standard.

Also, wokism is going to implode on itself. So we should strategically allow it.

It's time to go back to first principles and think strategically. Be ready for the long meticulous push. I have thought for a while we are in the abyss before a new American Renaissance. We have to be smart and not impulsive though.

▼ there was no end game though - i get it that everyone is upset - and in the moment I am rooting for the red blooded americans taking back their house - but for what? There is no way that a group of protesters is going to change the presidential election. Without a proper game plan what is the point? We just get a media even more convinced in their own self righteous hatred of Trump, you get casual sympathizers turned off, and you get a huge risk of the movement being stopped cold. I don't know what the answer is, but i do know that there has to be a plan. Storming the capitol was a great release, but does it advance our cause at all? I think if we are being honest, no. Short of an actual blood bath revolution, the only way to take back the country is by winning the hearts and minds of a majority of americans. Its by infiltrating city politics, it's by building on Trump's record approval from blacks and hispanics. I get that it's hard to win if the deck is stacked, but if we win the messaging game, then we have a chance. If you want to storm the capitol then it needs to be part of a bigger plan and that plan needs to be viable. Like it or not we cannot rid this country of liberal bullshit by force.

I would say africa as a continent is kind of like you remind me of. Never any real leadership or cohesion. If it's anything just a corrupt tin pot dictator who is afraid to leave his palace because the entire country wants to Gadaffi him.

2 ▼ I'm referring to militant rebel groups and such, not established countries.

The reason being is that if a snake has a head you can cut it off, but you cannot cut head of an animal without one.

That being said South Africa is the lesser possibility, atleast they were smart enough to establish a semi-autonomous Afrikaner state before handing over rule to those who hated

The future is either brighter than we ever imagined or darker than could ever be believed, and a huge part will be determined in the next 2 weeks.

Do you really a think a "revolution" like that would work? People are just going to band together and fight when they don't even know what it is they are fighting for? The 50% of this country that are patriots banding together to fight communist oppressors is one thing, every man for himself so now we can live in Somalia while China takes over the world is something 99% of us have no interest in, fuck I'd rather just sit home and play video games and smoke weed in that case.

It happens, and works all the time. It is used often by terrorists and revolutionaries in order to distribute power and information in a way that can not be taken out in one fell swoop. Of course their is always a unifying cause and a unifying opponent and it usually breaks down at a state vs state level but we are not talking about state vs state here. Even Antifa employs the tactics successfully.

It's not every man for himself at all, its just a very informal way of organizing.

needed. If they find enough massive fraud to overturn the election, great. If they don't find enough fraud, then that's great too. I'm willing to live with that. Not only that, but it would calm everyone down. The fact that they didn't even try to do this leads me to the conclusion that it's a coup.

permalink parent save report block reply

▲ PurestEvil 1 months ago +4 / -0

4 ▼ It is a coup. The entirety of the government stands against you. It is a dictatorship now. Seriously. It will only get worse over time.

The politicians who claim to champion you will betray you as they betrayed Trump. It was long planned and we have been fooled. The China virus was planned as well. Remember the footage of random people dropping dead on the ground? This made us anxious about Covid. But it doesn't happen. It was propaganda directed against us, not the normies. Then sometimes later the MSM flipped their narrative 180° simultaneously.

Now Biden - a corrupt deep state puppet, a mockery of a human being - takes the throne. Which means his handlers control the presidency. Republicans play ball with Democrats (where both shit on Democracy and the Republic btw) and will do nothing.

Their next step is to ensure no such interference like Trump will ever happen again in the future. No election will have a result undesirable by them. You, the majority of the population, will be tax cattles. And they will exert TREMENDOUS PUNISHMENT for the "riot" you dared commit against the royalty. The Gestapo will arrest you on the streets, in your house, in the forest for daring to walk around maskless or unvaccinated.

YOU ARE THE ENEMY OF THE STATE. No - not since recently - but for years.

We all learned important lessons over the course of just several months, but also years. You know your enemies. This is a level of insight possibly unprecedented in history.

Texas enjoys its lack of state income tax and its federal hurricane disaster relief bailouts way too much. All that conservative lack of rules and regulations only works because the federal government picks up the cost of the expensive stuff.

Also, we kicked Texas's ass once before for trying to secede and we'll do it again.

Trump never wanted you to storm the Capitol, genius.

He wanted you to stand there and smile and cheer at his speech while he rants and rants, because he loves that, and then he wanted you to march around the Capitol so that Biden's election would be marred by the "huge" Trump protests, and Trump could continue to claim that America totally supports him because "look at all those people marching around with Trump flags on TV."

That was Trump's exit plan. Never admit defeat, leave but claim he was cheated, and he thought his supporters will just follow him into a new resistance movement where you cheer and listen to his Trump rally rants till the end of his days. Maybe run in 2024, maybe start Trump TV, who knows...

Never in a million years did he want this. This is a nightmare.

You don't want to see this happen in the country. As in, you don't want to see bad actors infiltrate your government and destroy it from within to the point where the most peaceful people who just "want to be left alone and live their lives" cross the entire country to be at an event, disappointed and witnessing betrayal, and have to storm the capitol.

You don't want to see the people who are being defunded and executed by the other side be so brainwashed that they kill our side for protesting while they use rubber bullets on AntiFA and BLM.

You don't want to see a coup of the most populist president in what is probably 150 some odd years succeed.

There was madness in any direction, at any hour. If not across the Bay, then up the Golden Gate or down 101 to Los Altos or La Honda. . . . You could strike sparks anywhere. There was a fantastic universal sense that whatever we were doing was right, that we were winning. . . .

And that, I think, was the handle—that sense of inevitable victory over the forces of Old and Evil. Not in any mean or military sense; we didn't need that. Our energy would simply prevail. There was no point in fighting—on our side or theirs. We had all the momentum; we were riding the crest of a high and beautiful wave. . . .

So now, less than five years later, you can go up on a steep hill in Las Vegas and look West, and with the right kind of eyes you can almost see the high-water mark—that place where the wave finally broke and rolled back.”

Today was this but for freedom.

I'm so sad an organic, leaderless movement of patriots took over the capitol without millions of corporate funding or a command structure of agitators.

Oh dang. What a tragedy. If only they had more they could have taken over the pentagon too! How sad they only made the congress evacuate...

Exactly right. It was just a bunch of frustrated people expressing their frustration. It didn't do anything except provide brief satisfaction to those who wanted an outlet for their frustration. I'll even admit to a certain amount of glee at seeing the establishment trembling at the wave of people entering the capitol building; those politicians NEED a healthy fear of the people, but strategically it was a very bad idea. It put Trump and the few somewhat decent Republicans in a bad position and forced them to speak against it, resulting in a schism on the Right. It had no plan or purpose behind and it accomplished nothing of substance.

I can describe a situation where fighting would not only be effective but morally justified as well, but very few people are even talking about this... they just want to fight, thinking that will somehow bring about positive change.

I won't condemn the people who stormed the building because I don't think what they did was that wrong — I even sympathize with them — but it was ultimately still self-satisfactory and strategic. It was a bad idea.

 Senseless violence won't do anything. What exactly are you fighting to do? What's your plan?

Are you going to take hostages unless Trump is sworn in as President? Are you going to kill everyone in Congress and appoint your band of misfits as the new Congress? Are you going to storm Washington and appoint Trump dictator? What's your plan exactly?

Calling for violence and fighting is idiotic beyond words. Violence isn't an "ends", it's a "means", and you and the rest of the people can't actually articulate a clear plan of action towards achieving something we can all agree is worthwhile. You just want to fight because you're frustrated, but sorry, that's not a good enough reason.

“ What he didn't know there had been set a trap at the capital to try and incite violence that's a silly thing to 'not know'

Seriously what else could have happened when this many people who believe the election was stolen enough to drive out to DC in this political climate, hear the election is not going to be saved while they stand in sight of the building where the culprits are stealing the country?

The riot was the only possible outcome.

Calling this rally down on DC on this date was a seriously case of bad judgement - I thought he had something left to play and the crowd was meant to legitimize the moves he would make.

I am wondering if Pence promised him to make that move and than stabbed him in the back, or if Trump just hoped and prayed it would work out.

▼ no we aren't

communists literally forced people to starve at gunpoint. People tattooed their info on their bodies because communists were decapitating people.

You just watched them take over the center of the national government and you can't even muster a cheer? You're already dead, don't try to take the rest of us with you.

3 Funny you say that.

▼ To me it feels like Berserk the Band of the Hawk at the Eclipse, where they all get betrayed and sacrificed by their old leader whose vision and leadership they all adored and would fight and die for.

Especially with the stuff of gathering in the "Ellipse" or whatever, sounded eerily similar to the "Eclipse" from the show.

I'm actually kind of new to anime but man that one was insane. Didn't want to say anything as for the similarities as I didn't want to demoralize anyone or have them call me a doomer though. Haha...

1 See this is why I can't tolerate Christians.

▼ Because Christians will tolerate anything, no matter how heinous. Pacifistic pussies that will walk to their own grave with their head held high. Did you know judaism doesn't even have an afterlife? Not gonna see them dying fruitlessly for their beliefs.

And what, an enemy becomes a brother because you dip them in water and say some words about Jesus? How gullible can you be? How can you ever trust a church leadership that's so easily infiltrated?

No wonder so few of the founding fathers were Christian. In an overwhelmingly Christian land, a majority of the Framers were not Christian. Just deists inspired by Christian morality. Shouldn't that tell you something about your faith? About its ability to produce slaves, but not leaders nor masters? About Christianity's deep lack of civic wisdom?

I love how you all err on the side of kindness, but for the love of God and all that's Holy, don't peacefully whittle away your last years while letting you and your people be wiped out.

No, it means don't make one of the last places we have for open communication an obvious target for law enforcement. The mods have stated various versions of this (no calls for violence) numerous times over the past year. I doubt any Pedes went out and bought helicopters to offer a free ride service, so I wouldn't count those either.

The mods are saying "Don't plan your Minecraft game here." They aren't telling you how many scoops of ice cream you can eat somewhere else.

Be careful with heroes, they mostly exist in the head of the follower and set them up for black pill moments like this. Trump is a man, one man in his 70s to be specific. Trump was never an autocrat despite what the left says. He is one man who who stands virtually alone and occupies an office described by a document. He was cheated out of his second term in office and is not willing to sacrifice what remains of his life on an attempted insurrection. I don't like the situation one bit, but I don't blame him.

If that's where this is, if nobody on the right is willing to be proud that in large groups right wing voices are heard, than there is a bigger issue at hand.

This guy thinks it's 2004 and that we actually liked fox news at any point after summer 2016.
I could tell he was a handshake icon from that comment alone.

it is you rewriting history. Do you not remember the republican primaries? Fox News did everything possible to prevent him becoming the nominee. Have you ever heard people saying they are controlled opposition? It's been said here since the primaries.

It is you not understanding us, is what it is. If you think Trump is a republican, or that anyone here supports the republican party, think again.

Trump watched fox and friends and complained about them often. His supporters hate Fox.
Tucker Carlson may have been the only exception.

You gotta stop getting all your info on us from the MSM and reddit.

17 ▼ Trump is unfortunately about to end up in prison, the corrupt politicians are going to make an example out of him so than none follow him. If he really has any fight left, now is the time. EO or martial law must be enacted now.

14 ▼ OK, can somebody explain to me, does Mike Pence have two Twatter accounts? There's the @VP a but people are referring to the @Mike_Pence timeline to prove he "cucked."

I believe the @VP account belongs to whomever is the current VP. Pence has two accounts, the VP account and his own @Mike_Pence account. Just as Trump currently uses @POTUS and @realDonaldTrump.

Yeah they all have two accounts. Just like Trumps got @POTUS and @realDonaldTrump. The POTUS and VP is a gov account.
